

9.9.99

WHERE WILL YOU BE?

A. At the Austin Software Council's Texas Software Symposium, of course!

Software...The Pervasive Technology
Thursday, September 9, 1999 11am-7pm
Four Seasons Hotel, Austin

- 11:00 Registration
- 12:00 Lunch Keynote: John Yochelson, President, U.S. Council on Competitiveness introduced by Mayor Kirk Watson
- 1:15 Break
- 1:30 Panel: E-Business. Moderator: Bob Kruger, BMC Software. Speakers: Steve Brown, Palm Computing; Greg Hemstreet, Pervasive Software; Andy Martin, Garden.com; David Sikora, Ventix.
- 2:45 Break
- 3:00 Speakers: Co-Design. Robert France, Motorola-Austin; Jerry Sullivan, Adams Capital introduced by VP Jeff S. Smith, IBM.
- 4:00 Panel: Visions of the Future. Moderator: Hank Jones, Arnold, White & Durkee. Speakers: Brad Fregger, Dryken Technologies; Marc Raibert, Boston Dynamics.
- 5:00 Special Awards
- 5:15 Keynote: Bruce Sterling, author
- 5:30 Reception

Gold Sponsors

Austin American Statesman
Brobeck Phleger & Harrison LLP
The Don Cox Company
Horizon Film & Video ~ Networker.Com
Pervasive Software
PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP
Silicon Valley Bank

John Yochelson runs a high-caliber board of national players, including Harvard University's Michael Porter, who are currently focusing on six high tech regional clusters, one of which is Austin. Bruce Sterling, an internationally renowned science fiction author based in Austin, is recognized for his vision of technology and his quick wit.

Cost $150 member (additional, same company $85)
$185 non-member (additional, same company $120)

Registration form at www.austinsoftwarecouncil.org
Or Call (512) 305-0023.

Silver Sponsors

Arnold, White & Durkee LLP
Austin Business Journal ~ Dazel
DMR Consulting Group ~ Imperial Bank ~ KJFK
Murphree & Co ~ New England Financial
Resource Financial Group ~ Technical Business
Network ~ Thompson & Knight LLP
University of Texas, Office of Industry Relations
Woodruff Sawyer & Co.